"Mr. Baer," remarked the scribe "some of the gentlemen associated with you in the Silver King mine are interested in other mines in this section. while negotiations are also pending for the purchase of other properties, what have on mining interests here?"

scuring capital from Kansults have been closely watched by other men of means, who would have been willing to invest in other properties of promise, but I scarcely think they could be induced to do so while this litigation languever our company, replied Mr. Baer.

Mr. Beer, who is also interested in the Quarts Mountain mining property, said the prospects there are very encouraging. He also stated that he had been showered with regrets from citisons of Prescott, that they had been compelled to close work on the Groom creek property.

Dition's Dog Story.

A small co erie of young men were in Clerk Horne's office in the court house, a few days ago, discussing dogs. The canine race in general, and Sheriff O'Neill's beautiful white bull terrier in particular, were under discussion when Joe Dillen, who is not much af a deg fancier, and had taken little part in the conversation, said :

"Speaking of dogs reminds me of family, and we decided to get rid of the same deg until we went and dug rection. the dirt out of the grave he had been put in in the morning, and found it empty."

Mr. Dillon, whose veracity is unquestioned, says he will not only wouch for the truth of this story but can substantiate it by affidavits, although his hearers all prenounced it the "deg-gonedst" story they had ever heard.

How the Grass Grows. The old rhyme says:

Osta and beans and barley grows, How, you, nor I, nor nobody knows, That is the way the grass is growing all over Southern California these mild December days after the big rains. Mr. Gilbert, of the Laguna, says he can see it grew. Mr. Dawson, of the Asusa, says he can hear it grow. A newspaper reporter who always tells the truth, says "he has heard" that in some sections it grows with such a rush the noise it makes keeps the babies from going to sleep during the day, and the chickens from going to sleep

> We are in receipt of a pamphlet, entitled "The Sun Ged," an Indian Edda, by Dr. J. E. Wharton, of Phonix, and printed by the Phenix Herald. The cochure contains an account of the Indian traditions of the creation, the origin of man, the floed and the end of the world, and other beliefs of the aborigines, and is very interestingly portrayed in poetic form by the dector. The typographical work is also excellent, and the little book is a welcome

> The Santa Ana, California, Free Press says: "The local papers should combine against the e mean people, of which there are a few left, who take a paper for a few months without paying for it, and then when they have run up a bill that they never intend to pay change over and take the other paper, stopping the one that has given them credit." Out here in Arizona we have net been troubled with these kind of chaps, but have run up against a few who, after taking the paper eight or ten years, or until asked to remit something on account, coolly replied that teeth.

The American Building and Lean Association of Minneapelis, of which there is a branch in Prescett, is incorporated under the laws of Minnesota, van & Co. stitution, under the same supervision as the banks of the state. It claims assets in the way of first mortgages to the value of $2,255,000, which would indicate that it is in a healthy condition. The principles of the institution are correct, and with honest management it should be able to offer as good inducements for the investment of small monthly sums as one could wish
